Tirana, Albania

Introduction

International Conference on Applied Psychology and Educational Sciences aims at bringing together leading academic scientists, academic staff, researchers, psychologists, education professionals, and mental health professionals to exchange and share their experiences and research results on all domains of applied Psychology and Educational Sciences. It provides an interdisciplinary platform for researchers, practitioners and educators to present and discuss the most recent innovations, trends, and concerns, contextualized issues in Albania and beyond, as well as practical challenges encountered and solutions adopted in the fields of Applied Psychology, Educational Sciences and other interconnected sciences. The Conference is co-organized between the Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Tirana with the Faculty of Education, University of Prishtina and University College Logos.

Aim and Relevance

This conference aims at contributing to the improvement of the quality of different life aspects, by proposing new approaches and innovations which promote the development and progress of applications, practices and procedures, with a special focus on the societal development in Albania. One of the most important objectives of this conference is to provide researchers and practitioners with the opportunity to present findings and exchange novel ideas and experiences in different domains of applied psychology and pedagogy.

Call for Contributions

Interested authors are encouraged to contribute to the conference through submissions of their research abstracts or posters which describe original and unpublished results of empirical research in all areas of applied psychology and pedagogy. Participants are also encouraged to submit proposals for workshops where they can bring up for discussion innovative ideas, new concepts, or practical solutions in the fields of applied psychology and pedagogy.
